

THE AEJMC SCHOLASTIC JOURNALISM DIVISION HONORS LECTURE

Call for Nominations, 2022

A special recognition by the Scholastic Journalism Division is the selection of one of our members to present an Honors Lecture during AEJMC's annual conference. The Honors Lecture provides our division with a way of honoring an exceptional division member and hearing that person's insights. The text of the speech appears in the Division's publications and contributes to understanding of the scholastic journalism field.

This year's Honors Lecture will be presented during the AEJMC 2022 conference, scheduled for Aug. 3-6 in Detroit (pre-conference day: Aug. 2). Please send your nomination letter for the Honors Lecture to Marina Hendricks (marina.hendricks@sdstate.edu), Scholastic Journalism Division head, by no later than June 3, 2022.

The honoree must be a member of the Division with a history of service to scholastic journalism.

Past Honors Lecturers:

2021 – Lyle Olson, South Dakota State University
2020 – John Bowen, Kent State University
2019 – Linda Shockley, Dow Jones News Fund
2017 – Linda Jones, Roosevelt University
2016 – Mary Arnold, South Dakota State University
2015 – Vanessa Shelton, Iowa
2014 – Candace Bowen, Kent State University
2013 – Karen Flowers, University of South Carolina
2012 – Cheryl Pell, Michigan State University
2011 – Linda Puntney, Kansas State University
2010 – Julie E. Dodd, University of Florida
2009 – John Hudnall, University of Kansas
2008 – Jim Crook, University of Tennessee
2007 – Bruce Konkle, University of South Carolina
2006 – Bill Click, Winthrop University
2005 – Bobby Hawthorne, University of Texas
2004 – H. L. Hall, JEA Past President
2003 – Elizabeth (Beth) Dickey, University of South Carolina
2002 – Kay Phillips, University of North Carolina
2001 – Marilyn Weaver, Ball State University
2000 – Lillian Lodge Kopenhaver, Florida International University
1999 – John E. (Jack) Dvorak, Indiana University
1998 – Barbara B. Hines, Howard University
1997 – Chuck Stone, University of North Carolina
1996 – William Downs, Ouachita Baptist University
1995 – Mary K. Sparks, Texas Woman's University
1994 – Richard P. Johns, The University of Iowa
1993 – Thomas Eveslage, Temple University
1992 – Norma Thiele, Fort Wayne (Ind.) Northside HS
1991 – John M. Butler, Louisiana State University
1990 – Jackie Engel, University of Kansas
1989 – W. Manion Rice, Southern Illinois University
1988 – James F. Paschal, University of Oklahoma-Norman 1987 – Dorothy McPhillips, Journalism Education Assoc.

1986 – Mary Benedict, Indiana University
1985 – Regis L. Boyle, University of Maryland
1984 – Robert Tottingham, University of Wisconsin-Madison
1983 – Albert T. Scroggins, Jr., University of South Carolina
1982 – Arthur Sanderson, University of South Florida
1981 – Robert Knight, University of Missouri
1980 – Louis E. Inglehart, Ball State University
1979 – Max Haddick, University of Texas-Austin
1978 – Reid H. Montgomery, University of South Carolina
1977 – Gretchen Kemp, Indiana University
1976 – Paul S. Swensson, American Press Institute
1975 – Earl. F. English, University of Missouri
1974 – DeWitt C. Reddick, University of Texas-Austin
1973 – Lester G. Benz, The University of Iowa

THE INNOVATIVE OUTREACH TO SCHOLASTIC JOURNALISM AWARD

Call for Nominations, 2022

The AEJMC Scholastic Journalism Division seeks submissions for the Innovative Outreach to Scholastic Journalism Award. This honor recognizes an innovative program or shared resource offered by a college or university that is targeted to high school, middle school or elementary school students or teachers.

The award will be presented during the AEJMC 2022 conference, scheduled for Aug. 3-6 in Detroit (pre-conference day: Aug. 2). Please submit your nomination as a PDF to R.J. Morgan (morgan@go.olemiss.edu), Division awards chair, by no later than June 3, 2022.

Nominators must be directly involved in the nominated program or resource development and its implementation. They are not required to be members of the AEJMC Scholastic Journalism Division.

This competition is designed to recognize programs that promote interest and training in scholastic journalism at the secondary and pre-secondary level (K-12) by providing models of innovative programs that higher education media programs could replicate. The ability to replicate the outreach program is a major factor in the selection of the award winner. These can include one-day workshops, online training or summer training. Also eligible for consideration are innovative resources that help scholastic journalism students and teachers, such as apps, podcasts, websites and curriculum materials.

To be eligible:

- The outreach program or resource must focus on students and/or teachers in high school, middle school and/or elementary school media programs.
 - Program: The program must have been conducted at least once. The outreach program may be face-to-face or conducted through a virtual delivery method (synchronous or asynchronous).
 - Resource: The resource may be based on collaboration, but the faculty member submitting the entry must have played a major role in the resource's development.

(continued on the next page)

The nomination PDF should include:

- Cover page: Name of the outreach program; name of the sponsoring institution and other partners (commercial newspapers, grant sponsors, etc.); name of the person submitting the entry and contact information
- Origin of the program or resource, including any models that were used in its design
- Goal(s) for the program/resource
- Target audience and documentation of participation/use
- Description of college or university faculty involvement
- Description of any involvement by commercial media or funders
- Documentation of the assessment process
- Budget: Include financial support or support in kind from commercial media outlets, grants, etc.
- Supporting materials, such as the itinerary of a workshop program or a copy of the curriculum materials. For an online resource, the URL or web access information must be provided.
- Letter of support from the administrator of the author's (or creator's) department/division, addressing the value of the program/resource

DAVID ADAMS SCHOLASTIC JOURNALISM DIVISION EDUCATOR OF THE YEAR AWARD

Call for Nominations, 2022

Nominations are now being accepted for the 2022 David Adams Scholastic Journalism Division Educator of the Year Award. This award recognizes a deserving Scholastic Journalism Division member for outstanding performance in the college/university classroom and at scholastic journalism workshops and conferences.

The award will be presented during the AEJMC 2022 conference, scheduled for Aug. 3-6 in Detroit (pre-conference day: Aug. 2). Please send nominations and supporting materials to Candace Perkins Bowen (cbowen@kent.edu), Division teaching standards chair, by no later than June 3, 2022.

Nominees must have been members of the Scholastic Journalism Division for the previous three years.

Nominations should consist of the following:

- One letter of recommendation
- Two letters (maximum) of support
- Curriculum vitae

Nomination letters should identify in a single page the various ways the nominee has made significant contributions to journalism in the secondary schools through work in journalism and mass communication in higher education.

Past recipients:

2021 – Vince Filak, University of Wisconsin, Oshkosh
2020 – Bradley Wilson, Midwestern State University
2019 – Peter Bobkowski, University of Kansas
2018 – Sally Renaud, Eastern Illinois University
2017 – Mark Goodman, Kent State University
2016 – Nicole Kraft, Ohio State University
2015 – Mary Arnold, South Dakota State University
2014 – John Bowen, Kent State University

2013 – Monica Hill, University of North Carolina
2012 – Bruce Konkle, University of South Carolina
2011 – Judy Robinson, University of Florida
2010 – Barbara Hines, Howard University
2009 – Lyle Olson, South Dakota State University
2008 – James Tidwell, Eastern Illinois University
2007 – John Hudnall, University of Kansas
2006 – Cheryl M. Pell, Michigan State University
2005 – Candace Perkins-Bowen, Kent State University
2004 – David Adams, Indiana University
2003 – Thomas Eveslage, Temple University
2002 – Richard Johns, University of Iowa
2001 – Jack Dvorak, Indiana University
2000 – Marilyn Weaver, Ball State University
1999 – Linda Putney, Kansas State University
1998 – Julie E. Dodd, University of Florida

THE ROBERT P. KNIGHT MULTICULTURAL RECRUITMENT AWARD

Call for Nominations, 2022

The AEJMC Scholastic Journalism Division is accepting nominations for the Robert P. Knight Multicultural Recruitment Award, which is presented to any individual or media organization that has made significant contributions to promoting diversity in scholastic media programs. The award is named for Robert P. Knight, a professor in the University of Missouri School of Journalism who served as director of the Missouri Interscholastic Press Association from 1965 to 1992. Knight received the award in 1990.

The award, which includes a cash prize of $100, will be presented during the AEJMC 2022 conference, scheduled for Aug. 3-6 in Detroit (pre-conference day: Aug. 2). Please submit your nomination to R.J. Morgan (morgan@go.olemiss.edu), Division awards chair, by no later than June 3, 2022.

The letter of nomination should include:

- A bio or overview of the nominee, not so long as to overwhelm committee members, but not so short as to under-promote the nominee. Include the nominator's name, title, school or organization, email address and phone number.
- A thorough explanation as to how the nominee has promoted diversity in scholastic media programs; this may include quotes and testimony from those served by the nominee.
- Any media references about the nominee that underscore the nominee's commitment to diversity in scholastic media.
- Multiple nomination letters are acceptable and recommended.

In addition, send a document or a link to a document that lists the nominee's achievements with regard to promoting diversity in scholastic media programs (i.e., a curriculum vitae or résumé; a website link; or other appropriate information).

Past recipients:

2021 – No recipient
2020 – Ed Madison, University of Oregon
2019 – Toni Smith, Northern Arizona University

2018 – Acel Moore High School Journalism Workshop, Philadelphia
2017 – No recipient
2016 – Kimetris Baltrip, assistant professor of journalism, Kansas State University
2015 – George Daniels, associate professor of journalism, The University of Alabama
2014 – Steve O’Donoghue, retired journalism adviser, John C. Fremont High School (Oakland, California)
2013 – Linda Callahan, North Carolina A&T State University
2012 – Illinois Press Foundation/Eastern Illinois High School Journalism Workshop
2011 – Joseph Selden, associate dean for multicultural affairs in the College of Communications at Pennsylvania State University
2010 – University of Arizona School of Journalism
2009 – Philadelphia Daily News
2008 – June O. Nicholson, associate professor in the School of Mass Communications at Virginia Commonwealth University
2007 – Edward Mullins, Behringer Distinguished Professor at the University of Alabama Department of Journalism
2006 – Ted Stanton, professor emeritus of the University of Houston School of Communication
2005 – Chris Strudwick-Turner, Director of the Student Journalism Program for the Los Angeles Times
2004 – Diana Mitsu Klos, AEJMC High School Journalism Senior Project Director
2003 – Vanessa Shelton, University of Iowa
2002 – Walt Swanston, Senior Project Director for Diversity and Education Programs, Radio and Television News Directors Foundation
2001 – Doris J. Giago, South Dakota State University
2000 – Linda Waller (Shockley), Dow Jones Newspaper Fund
1999 – Marie Parsons, University of Alabama
1998 – Lucy Ganje, University of North Dakota
1997 – San Diego Chapter, California Chicano News Media Association
1996 – Barbara B. Hines, Howard University
1995 – Diane Hall, Florida A&M University
1994 – Mary Arnold, University of Iowa
1993 – Alice Bonner, Freedom Forum
1992 – Richard Lee, South Dakota State University
1991 – Thomas E. Engleman, Dow Jones Newspaper Fund
1990 – Robert P. Knight, University of Missouri-Columbia
1989 – George Curry, Chicago Tribune
1988 – Craig Trystad, Youth Communication
1987 – Pittsburgh (Pa.) Black Media Federation