Editor's Note:

With this summer newsletter, I bid you adieu, at least as newsletter editor. It has been a wonderful experience, serving in this role alongside a wonderful executive board. Thank you to you all for your trust and patience. I will be on sabbatical next year so handing the editing marker to someone new this fall. A big thank you to all of the CSW members, this is a lively, wonderfully designed (thanks to Dawn Paine) newsletter that can now live, grow, and prosper as a Web letter now. Best wishes and blessings.

Announcements

Brenda Edgerton-Webster, Mississippi State University, is the recipient of an Honorable Mention Award in the 2008 Margaret A. Blanchard Doctoral Dissertation Award of the American Journalism Historians Association for her dissertation, "The tale of two voices: An oral history of women communicators from Mississippi Freedom Summer 1964 and a new Black feminist concept." The award committee noted, "originality of argument, thoroughness of ... research, and ... clarity of writing" and that the dissertation "clearly advances the art of journalism and mass communication history."

But wait, there's more!

Dr. Edgerton-Webster has been selected by Henry Louis Gates, Jr. and Patricia A. Sullivan to participate in the 2008 NEH Summer Institute on "The Civil Rights Movement" at Harvard's Du Bois Institute.

Past CSW Chair Von Whitmore has been awarded a 2008-2009 Fulbright Scholar Award. She will spend a year in Egypt at Ahrum Canadian University, outside of Cairo and will teach courses in news producing and ethics and work on a research project on Egyptian journalism.

Join Us for Breakfast?

What are you doing at 7 a.m. on Friday, August 8? If you answered "Sleeping" or "Having breakfast", why not join us instead for the CSW breakfast? We'll provide the caffeine and continental breakfast, and you provide the ideas and conversation to make connections, share ideas, and socialize.

This breakfast event may be a little on the early side, but we promise it will be worth it! We'll keep it informal, and look forward to hearing what you'd like to see happen in CSW for the coming year, how you feel about the Commission's agenda and relevance, and what issues we should put on our radar.

Please plan to join us.
We'll look forward to seeing you in Chicago!

Intriguing Research at the conference

CSW is looking forward to an intriguing program of original research at the Chicago conference in August. Of the 41 papers submitted to the commission by faculty members and graduate students this year, we are scheduling 23 for presentation in refereed sessions, yielding an acceptance rate of 56%. The sessions will feature research on themes such as Women in Journalism and the Academy, Female Identities, Online & Offline, Womens and Girls Consumption of Media, and Gender Stereotypes: Change and Stasis. There also will be a joint Scholar-to-Scholar poster session. CSW research sessions are scheduled for Thursday at 11:45 a.m.-1:15 p.m. and 1:30-3 p.m., Friday at 5:15-6:45 p.m., and Saturday 1:30-3 p.m. and 3:15-4:45 p.m. Please see the schedule provided on pages 4-6 of this newsletter for more details.

gender & the media

From Stacey Hust

Every summer I teach Gender and the Media to about 25 students. I am always looking for new on-line tools and Web sites that can help my students understand how the media assists in creating and supporting gender stereotypes. The following is a short list of a few of the Web sites I have found useful in showing students a variety of opinions about gender and the media.

The Gender Ads Project, <http://www.genderads.com/>, founded by Dr. Scott A. Lukas at Lake Tahoe Community College, inventories gender portrayals in advertisements.

Dr. Tom Reichert's Sex in Advertising.com, <http://www.sexinadvertising.com/>, is dedicated to informing students and citizens about the research and history of sex in advertising. The Web site was founded by Dr. Tom Reichert of the University of Georgia.

Girls, Women + Media Project, <http://www.mediaandwomen.org/>, is a non-profit initiative that focuses on how girls and women are portrayed in the media.

Media Awareness Network, <http://www.media-awareness.ca/english/index.cfm>, is a Canadian-based non-profit organization, and its Web site includes sections that examine various media stereotypes.

The Geena Davis Institute on Gender in Media, <http://www.thegeenadavisinstitute.org/home.php>, founded by actor Geena Davis, includes summaries of research on the absence of females in young children's entertainment programming. It also includes a number of resources for gender in the media discussions.

University of Minnesota's Tucker Center for Research on Girls & Women in Sport, <http://cehd.umn.edu/tuckercenter/resources/default.html>, includes a number of resources for discussions about the intersections between gender and sport. According to its website, the Tucker Center examines "how sport and physical activity affect the lives of girls and women, their families, and communities."

PROPOSED BYLAWS

of the Commission on the Status of Women 2008

Article I: Name

The name of this organization shall be the Commission on the Status of Women.

Article II: Purpose

The purpose of the Commission is to advocate for the improvement of the status of women in journalism and mass communication education as well as in the journalism and mass communication workforce. The Commission shall promote feminist scholarship in journalism and mass communication and plan and present programs.

Article III: Membership

Membership in the Commission shall be open to members in good standing of AEJMC (who are dues paying members of the Commission).

Article IV: Officers

Section 1. The officers of the Commission shall be a Chair, a Vice/Program Chair, a Research Chair, a Midwinter Conference Chair, a Newsletter Editor, and a Recorder. The officers shall perform duties prescribed by these Bylaws and Constitution and Bylaws of AEJMC.

Section 2. Except for the Chair position, election of the officers shall be held at the annual meeting. Unless otherwise specified at the time of the election, the term of office for each position will be one year. The Chair position will be filled by the person holding the Vice Chair position the previous year.

Article V: Executive Committee

Section 1. The Executive Committee of the Commission shall consist of the elected officers.

Section 2. The Executive Committee shall have the general responsibility for the conduct of affairs of the Commission between its annual business meetings, fix the time and place of the meetings, make recommendations to the Commission, and perform other duties as prescribed by the Bylaws.

Article VI: Duties of the Officers

Section 2. The Chair shall oversee the activities of the Commission and shall appoint any committees and task forces deemed necessary. The Chair shall be the person who coordinates liaisons between the Commission on the Status of Women and the Commission on the Status of Minorities and other groups within AEJMC actively engaged in supporting the non-discrimination and multi-cultural inclusiveness clause in the AEJMC Constitution. (These groups include those designated to lesbian/gay/bisexual/transgender issues and interests of persons with disabilities.) This person shall also coordinate liaisons between the Commission on the Status of Women and Divisions within AEJMC. This duty shall include the appointment of a graduate student liaison at the annual business meeting. The Chair shall have signing authority for the budget and shall report on the budget at the annual meeting. The Chair shall also represent the Commission at meetings of the AEJMC Executive Committee and assist other officers as necessary.

Section 3. The Vice/Program Chair shall be responsible for the preparation of the program for the annual meeting, including attendance at the AEJMC midwinter meeting and chip auction. The Vice/Program Chair shall oversee and coordinate the process for the Commission's annual awards, aside from research paper awards. The Vice/Program Chair shall also assist the Chair as necessary. The Vice/Program

Chair will become the Chair in the succeeding year, as noted in Article IV, Section 2.

Section 4. The Newsletter Editor shall be responsible for the publication of a newsletter at least three times per year.

Section 5. The Recorder shall be responsible for taking minutes at the annual meeting and monitoring the Commission listserv. The Recorder shall also be responsible for coordinating membership drives.

Section 6. The Research Chair shall be responsible for conducting competitions for research papers to be presented at the annual meeting in compliance with requirements of the AEJMC Standing Committee on Research.

Section 7. The Midwinter Conference Chair shall be responsible for conducting competitions for research papers and preparing the programming for the Commission's participation in AEJMC's midwinter conference. This officer shall attend that conference and serve as the Commission's representative for that conference, unless otherwise designated.

Article VII: The Resource Committee

Section 1. A Resource Committee, made up of full professors who are members of the Commission on the Status of Women, shall be appointed by the Chair of the Commission on the Status of Women as necessary, and shall serve the following functions.

- A. Collate information about and provide information to members who experience sexual, gender or other harassment and/or discrimination situations.
- B. Keep informed about reported instances of discrimination, in the spirit of the non-discrimination and multicultural inclusiveness clause in the AEJMC Constitution. The committee shall not duplicate the monitoring functions of the Standing Committees of the AEJMC.
- C. Provide contact information about members of the Commission who are willing to provide a support network for members who experience discrimination and/or harassment as well as persons who are supporting those who have experienced discrimination and/or harassment.

Article VIII: Meetings

Section 1. The annual business meeting of the Commission shall be conducted during the annual meeting of AEJMC for the purpose of electing officers, receiving reports of officers and committees, and any other business that may arise.

Section 2. Special meetings of the Commission may be called by the Chair or the Executive Committee.

Article IX: Amendments

These bylaws can be amended at any regular meeting of the Commission by a two-thirds vote of those present and voting, provided that the proposed amendment has been distributed to members of the Commission 30 days before the meeting.

Key Changes make a difference.

By Cory Armstrong
University of Florida
CSW Co-Chair

While each year the CSW programming at AEJMC is wonderful and enriching, this year the commission also has an important slate of business to discuss at the members meeting—amending the CSW bylaws.

For the last few years, CSW officers have been working with bylaws that have become outdated in terms of operating the commission. For example, our co-chair system has shifted so that one person handles nearly all of the head duties, while the other's duties have slowly been eroding.

At the 2007 conference, the executive committee discussed proposed changes in the current bylaws to better fit the needs of our expanding group.

Our main goal was to tighten up the leadership structure while maintaining the core missions and ideals behind CSW. A 2007 survey of the AEJMC membership was part of preserving and developing the role of CSW within the larger organization, and these bylaws changes are also part of this strategy.

Therefore, most of our proposed changes are to the leadership structure within CSW. I have highlighted the four major issues below—along with the reasoning behind each. The full text of the original and proposed bylaws also appears in this issue for your consideration.

The key changes are:

The two co-chair positions and responsibilities would shift to one CSW Chair, who would oversee the commission and serve on the AEJMC Executive Board. RATIONALE: For the past few years, the second-year co-chair has been serving in both roles, while the first-year co-chair duties have mainly been limited to coordinating awards. The need for two chairs has dissipated.

The Chair position would be filled by the person who served as Vice/Program Chair the preceding year. RATIONALE: This would allow for continuity within the leadership structure.

The Vice/Program Chair would coordinate the CSW awards. RATIONALE: Coordinating awards fits well with convention programming, so this seemed like a natural fit.

The position of Midwinter Chair would be created and responsible for all programming at the AEJMC Midwinter Conference. RATIONALE: The midwinter conference is focused on graduate students and the officers believe that a presence at this conference will help generate graduate student interest in CSW. In addition, this would allow us increased visibility within AEJMC.

Anyone with specific feedback regarding these changes is asked to contact me at armstrong@jou.ufl.edu. We plan to consider these changes at the members meeting in Chicago at 6:45 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 7.
